Surveying of Griffith Students and Staff Policy

1. PURPOSE

The intent of the policy is to:

a) Clarify the process for the approval and conduct of surveys of staff and students;

b) Manage the frequency of surveys involving staff and students.

c) reduce the risk of over-surveying staff or students and to coordinate surveys to avoid confusion among recipients;

d) provide an opportunity for Survey Services to advise the applicant of similar or related University-wide surveys and datasets that may inform their study;
e) aid the process of early identification of potential issues arising from the proposed study; and
f) facilitate permission to contact the population sample using University systems (via any medium).

2. GLOSSARY

For the purposes of this document the following are defined:

2.1 Survey
Surveys are defined as a means of collecting information for analysis obtained through written, oral, or online questioning. This includes, but is not limited to, surveys, polls, face-to-face interviews, telephone interviews, and focus groups.

2.2 Core University Surveys
Surveys that provide data used as the basis for the University's consolidated and institutional key performance indicators to achieve the organisational goals as outlined in the University's Strategic Plan.

3. SCOPE

3.1 Surveys within the scope
Subject to the exemptions set out in Section 3.2, all surveys of students and staff require the prior approval of the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Academic) (for student surveys), the Senior Deputy Vice Chancellor (for HDR candidates), the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Engagement) (for graduated or former students), and the Vice President (Corporate Services) (for staff surveys). The requirement to obtain approval applies to surveys conducted for operational or research purposes, and also applies to external applicants as well as internal requests.

3.2 Exemptions from approval under this policy
The following types of surveys are exempt from the requirements to obtain approval from the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Academic) or Vice President (Corporate Services):

- Surveys conducted by Schools or Departments of their own students or staff seeking feedback on the operations of the School or Department (conditional on the approval of the Head of School or Head of Department).
- Surveys conducted by Administrative Offices or Divisions of their own staff seeking feedback on the operation of the Office or Division (conditional on the approval of the Office Director or Division Pro Vice Chancellor).
- Core University Surveys including Australian Government mandated surveys such as the Graduate Outcomes Survey (GOS) and Student Experience Survey (SES), as well as Starting@Griffith, International Student Barometer, Tell Us survey, and surveys for Student Experience of Courses (SEC) and Teaching (SET). These surveys are part of normal business processes at Griffith and have the ongoing approval of the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Academic).
- The UniForum general staff benchmarking survey, which has the ongoing approval of the Vice President (Corporate Services).
- Staff Attitude Surveys approved by the relevant Deputy Vice Chancellor / Pro Vice Chancellor.
- Surveys comprising of observational work only (i.e. where no direct approaches are made to the population).
- Surveys where the population opts in to fulfil a research-participation mandate for courses or programs in which they are enrolled.
4. APPROVAL FOR ACCESS TO SURVEY POPULATIONS

4.1 Access to University populations for survey purposes

Access to staff populations for survey purposes requires the approval of the Vice President (Corporate Services). Access to student populations requires the approval of the Deputy Vice Chancellor (Academic) or delegate. This is elaborated in section 4.2.

The Survey Manager, within the Office of Planning Services, has the delegated authority to approve:

- Survey applications submitted for inclusion in the monthly student and/or staff “Volunteer for Research Projects” broadcast email, which originate from Griffith staff or students, have ethical clearance, and do not offer incentives to children sixteen years or younger.

Surveys should not commence until this formal approval has been received in writing. Sufficient time should be allowed for the approval process to be completed prior to commencement of the survey.

Staff, student and alumni records are widely available to staff working within the University for the purposes of carrying out their duties. However, staff access to data does not prevent the need for those conducting a survey to seek approval for use of the population information before the survey commences.

4.2 Approval of Surveys

Survey approval can be achieved by submitting an Application to Conduct a Survey Form to Survey Services of the Office of Planning Services (surveys@griffith.edu.au).

Detailed information about the application process is located on the Application to Conduct a Survey form and on the Survey Services website.

Survey applications will not be considered until any required ethical clearances have been granted by the Griffith University Human Research Ethics Committee (Determining if your work needs ethics clearance) or confirmed by the Office for Research (e.g. where ethics clearance is provided by another Australian HREC or an ethical review body in another country).

Guidance on ethical issues involving university research is found in the Griffith University Research Ethics Manual. The manual also gives guidance on privacy issues in the publication and dissemination of research findings.

Variations to approved surveys should be discussed with Survey Services prior to changes being applied in the field.

4.3 Sufficient Notice for Approval, Population Access, and Survey Administration

Timely and efficient service by Survey Services will be endeavoured in all cases, however, given workload fluctuations, and time requirements by other departments within the University, sufficient notice is required for survey approval. Generally, this is deemed to be 2 weeks.

Assistance with sourcing survey populations is outside the scope of Survey Services. Applicants need to ensure they have left themselves enough time to source the survey population once administrative approval is received.

5. MANAGING DATA

5.1 Data Storage and Release

All data derived from university and institutional surveys are to remain the property of the University and may only be released to other parties on the written permission of the business process owners.
Completion of a survey instrument or participation in a survey as defined in this policy by a participant is taken as consent to the use of the data provided in the ways indicated in the survey application. In all cases (except when required by law), participant confidentiality will be maintained. This provision relates to both the use and storage of data.

6. CONTACTS AND FURTHER INFORMATION

Support for the Survey Policy will be provided through Survey Services of the Office of Planning Services. Applicants wishing to conduct surveys should contact the Office of Planning Services in the first instance for information and advice on procedure.
